

STERLING ENVIRONMENTAL ENGINEERING, P.C.

---

Teresa A. Dell Environmental Consultant

- Education: Masters of Professional Studies in Environmental and Forest Biology, State University of New York College (SUNY) at Environmental Science and Forestry (ESF), 2001
BS Environmental Science (Biology), State University of New York College (SUNY) at Oneonta, 1999
- Experience: Sterling Environmental Engineering, P.C., 2002
C.T. Male Associates, P.C., 2001
- Additional Experience: ACOE Approved Training: Professional Coursework offered by the Institute for Wetland and Environmental Education and Research (IWEER).
Course: Identification of Winter Woody Plants
Instructor: Ralph Tiner
- Membership: New York State Wetlands Forum, Inc.

Ms. Dell is an environmental consultant and wetland biologist experienced in the field of wetland delineation, including both commercial and private subdivision delineations, biological surveying and monitoring, identification of endangered species (Karner Blue butterfly), electro-shocking (Salmon River), preparation of field notes and reports and conducting map reviews. Ms. Dell is also experienced in performing Phase I Environmental Site Assessments (ESA), the preparation of short and long Environmental Assessment Forms (EAF), as well as the State Environmental Quality Review Act (SEQR) process including preparation of Environmental Impact Statements (EIS).

Ms. Dell's responsibilities at Sterling Environmental Engineering, P.C. includes conducting environmental site assessments, soil and water sampling, environmental monitoring, construction site inspections, carrying out percolation tests, wetland delineations, bioassays, vector studies, explosive gas surveys and fiscal services.